Arthur's Saturday Evening

A FAMILY NEWSPAPER, DEVOTED TO LITERATURE, [illegible]

PHILADELPHIA

THE PRESENT HORSE.

POPE GREGORY XVI.

APPARITIONS.

Another cause of apparitions, and of the belief in supernatural appearances, is to be found in the state of the nervous system. Dr. Plot, in his Natural History of Oxfordshire, gives a curious account of the appearance of Mrs. Veal, after a week's illness, to Mrs. Bargrave, at Canterbury, on the 8th of September, 1705. Mrs. Veal was at Dover, and Mrs. Bargrave was in perfect health, and engaged in conversation with a friend, when Mrs. Veal entered the room, and sat down in a chair. Mrs. Bargrave, supposing her friend to be in a trance, left the room, and called her servant, who saw the figure, but could not speak to it. Mrs. Bargrave then returned, and spoke to the figure, which replied to her questions, and told her that she had been to Canterbury to see her friend, and to desire her to pay a debt which she owed to her brother. Mrs. Bargrave promised to do so, and the figure disappeared. Mrs. Bargrave then went to the door, and saw the figure ride away on a horse, which she described as a mare with a bald face, and a sidesaddle. Mrs. Veal died on the 7th of September, 1705, at the very time when Mrs. Bargrave saw her. Mrs. Bargrave was a truthful woman, and her story was believed by all who knew her. Mrs. Veal's brother was applied to, and he admitted that his sister owed Mrs. Bargrave a debt, which he paid. Mrs. Veal's mare was described exactly as Mrs. Bargrave had seen it. Mrs. Veal's husband was also applied to, and he said that his wife had been ill, and had frequently talked of Mrs. Bargrave, but that he knew nothing of the debt. Mrs. Veal's maid-servant was also applied to, and she said that her mistress had been ill, and had frequently talked of Mrs. Bargrave, and that she had ridden her mare to Canterbury. Mrs. Veal's mare was found to be exactly as described by Mrs. Bargrave. Mrs. Veal's maid-servant was also applied to, and she said that her mistress had been ill, and had frequently talked of Mrs. Bargrave, and that she had ridden her mare to Canterbury. Mrs. Veal's mare was found to be exactly as described by Mrs. Bargrave.

ALL MY MISERY.—In the Newgate Calendar is the story of a man who was condemned to be executed for a forgery. He was a man of good family, and had been well educated. He was a man of great talent, and had been a member of the House of Commons. He was a man of great wealth, and had been a member of the House of Commons. He was a man of great wealth, and had been a member of the House of Commons. He was a man of great wealth, and had been a member of the House of Commons.

FOREIGN NEWS.

LADIES' FASHIONS FOR OCTOBER.

CONFESSION OF A MURDERER.

CHARLES DAVIS.

SALE OF STOCKS,

BANK NOTE PRICE CURRE

THE EVENING POST

PHILADELPHIA: SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1858.

EDITORIAL.

We have received from the Hon. Jas. Buchanan, late Minister to England, a letter, in which he declines the invitation of the Democratic Committee of Philadelphia to be present at the Democratic Mass Meeting to be held in this city on the evening of the 21st inst. Mr. Buchanan says that he has been for some time engaged in preparing a statement of his public conduct during his late mission to England, which he intends to publish in a few days, and that he will not, therefore, be present at the meeting. We presume that this statement will be a full vindication of Mr. Buchanan's course in relation to the Central American question, and will show that the charges made against him by Mr. Dallas, in his letter to Mr. Clayton, are entirely unfounded. We shall be glad to see this statement, and to learn that Mr. Buchanan has been able to vindicate himself from the charges which have been made against him.

We have received from Messrs. Lippincott, Grambo & Co. a copy of the Report of the Committee of Arrangements of the Democratic Mass Meeting held in this city on the 4th of July last. This Report contains the proceedings of the meeting, the speeches delivered, and the resolutions adopted. It is a very handsome publication, and will be read with interest by all who attended the meeting

From the New York Mirror of Saturday.
AN ITALIAN CHRISTMAS.

From the Boston Courier, 1834.
THE PLAGUE IN THE FOREST—A FABLE.
BY HON. ROBERT SIBLEY.

Rural Economist.

Cancer and Scrofula.

Cancer Ointment.

Extra Imperial Quadrille.

Carpet Establishment.

Gold Medal.

Oil and Lamp Store.

NORTH & WARREN'S
SUPERIOR AMERICAN

RED AND BLACK INKS.